Updated on February 01, 2021

If you live in Germany, you must have health insurance. You pay for health insurance every month. When you need healthcare, your insurance pays for it.

In this guide, I explain the difference between public health insurance (gesetzliche Krankenversicherung) and private health insurance (private Krankenversicherung). I also help you pick the right health insurance.

This guide was verified by 7 separate, independent health insurance brokers. It is updated multiple times per year.

How to apply for the German Freelance Visa

Home › Guides › Living in Berlin

Updated on October 19, 2020

The German freelance visa (Aufenthaltserlaubnis für selbständige Tätigkeit) allows you to be self-employed in Germany. In reality, it's a freelance residence permit, but everyone calls it the freelance visa.

This guide tells you everything you need to know about obtaining this visa: the required documents, the interview process, and what the visa allows you to do. If you are applying for the artist or language teacher visa, the paperwork is exactly the same, and this guide also applies for you.

This guide was reviewed by two Ausländerbehörde veterans: Kathleen Parker from Red Tape Translation, and Johanna Sieben from c/o Germany. It also integrates the feedback of dozens of applicants. I am immensely grateful for their help.
